Comments on Dry-Run Presentation --
"Agency Personnel Testing Activities"

1. The personal references to "my own mission" and the use of the personal pronoun "I" occur too frequently.
2. Certain self-serving descriptive adjectives (e.g., "high powered consultants") should be eliminated.
3. I question the advisability of quoting the Inspector General's statement regarding the value of the program.
4. Reference is made to the value to be obtained from the Logical Analysis Device, but according to our information, the use of this is more than a year away, and an additional $10,000 will have to be spent on re-search.
I have always understood the best and most complete study of Communist ~~Control~~ techniques was brought out by TSS in April 1956. Is this a duplication?
6. Reference is made to the general use of A & E personnel for general psychological work elsewhere in the Agency. I question the wisdom of such a broad statement.
